CHRONICS.

In a race he ran the other day, Longshot, the Indian, is spoken of in a Toronto paper as "the Toronto man," which equals the record of the Edmonton correspondent who this week appropriated a corner's request, Toronto by all Ontario is dubbed Hogtown. We have too much respect for the species to apply the name to the Alberta Capital.

The western correspondent of Jaffray's Globe is writing up the investigation into the conduct and condition of Jaffray's mines. The reports are interesting and quite harmless.

The belief that the promise of a certain alderman to cut the price of electric lighting is two by the introduction of the "Flat Rate" has not been kept; is not founded on street gossip.

Around the City.

Preserving strawberries now coming in every night, crop very short. Order at once, or you will be disappointed. A. G. Baslin.

The Strathcona brass band will lead the church parade of the C.O.F. on Sunday morning. The band will convene at the Orange Hall at 10 a. m.

A memorial service for the miners who lost their lives on Saturday night in the mine disaster, will be held in Holy Trinity church on Sunday morning, and will be conducted by the Rector, Rev. W. J. George.

Mr. Mumery, of Buckden, Huntingdonshire, England, who has been visiting Rev. W. R. George and arranging the grave of his son, who died last year, left for home on this morning's train for his journey back across the ocean.

J. Carmichael, and Chas. Bellati left on this afternoon's train to attend the supreme Grand Lodge meeting in Vancouver.

Mr. Thomas Irwin is also going, his mission being to attend the meeting of the Grand Lodge Freemasonry.

B. Squadron, C.M.R. will drill mounted tomorrow (Saturday) night at 8 p. m. A full turn out is requested, as the time for camp is growing short.

Camp will be held at Calgary from June 25th to July 5th, on the Territorial Rifle Range grounds. Col. Hueston, the new D.O.C. and M.V.O. will be in command.

There will be in attendance, the C. M.H., the 15th Light Horse and the Alberta Rangers, in all about 800 men. Each squadron will be provided with a dining tent for the men and each takes a team and wagon to camp. These two features will add greatly to the comfort of the men.

From A. and C. squadrons will travel from here on a special military train, leaving here on the evening of the 24th.

Col. Steele, the new officer in command, has led a soldier's life for 40 years, and is one of the best known of Canada's military men.

"Wine, Women and Craft" Will Cause Retirement of Two More Ministers.

Vancouver, June 13.—George W. Fowler, Conservative member for mings-Albert, N. H., one of the chief actors in the political drama which was the feature of the last federal election, ending in the case of the minister of railways and canals, Hon. H. R. Emmerson, arrived in Vancouver today on his semi-annual visit to this province, in which he holds large interests.

It will also be recalled that the "fighting" member for Kings was one of the star witnesses before the insurance commission which was issued on June 11, in the drama which closed with the Emmerson episode, the end of which is not yet. That awaits the trial of the editor of the Fredericton Star, who was "committed" on the charge of criminal libel, preferred by the examiner, and in part going out of Mr. Fowler's historic phrase "wine, women and craft."

Take my word for it, Emmerson is out of the cabinet and for all time, whatever the result of his libel suit may be. As to whether the Fredericton Star is justified in the particular charges they made against him I leave the public to judge from the evidence of the examination alone in the preliminary proceedings. But I want to say this: Emmerson's resignation from the cabinet was not voluntary, as he would have the public believe, and I can prove it and it is a certainty that he is an excellent minister for all time.

His disappearance from the scene of federal power is one of the results of the insurance commission inquiry, continued Mr. Fowler. "The public may expect two more, and both will be cabinet ministers who will step down and out, and that soon."

"But as they are still in the cabinet they could not be of course named."

"The public will have to think that out for itself," said the member for Kings.

"Then the insurance investigation had a beneficial effect after all." "Yes it has been of some service to the public already, as you see, and promises more, as is some justification at least for the expenditure of public money, and that enquiry cost a small fortune. But considering the mischief which brought it into being it was the flattest kind of a failure—a political farce, pure and simple."

Then the member for Kings referred to his own examination before it.

"They thought they had something against me that I couldn't handle land sale, purely a private business matter of my own as the evidence disclosed. So the fun was all the other way. When Mr. Ross was fit to make insinuations against me in the House following a speech, I was told by him that Ralph Smith was to ask for deserting the Labor party, I thought the time was ripe for the challenge I made."

This, it will be recalled, was the challenge that if the private business of a member was to be analyzed in public in parliament then every member of the House and every cabinet minister would be included in the revelations even to "wine, women and craft."

"Understand I did not try to prevent Mr. Ross or any other member of the House making an inquiry into my affairs. Far from it. I courted the fullest investigation. But I warned the others they would have some of the same medicine."

Even then, he pointedly agreed with me, that the private business of a member was not a subject of discussion in parliament, and as the insurance commission's report made no charge whatever against me, and I was not called upon to carry out my threat of revelation.

"Then the newspapers took it up with their cartoons and illusions on the verdict of the coroner's jury, and out there will be two more."

We received this afternoon, but unfortunately too late for tomorrow's publication in the form of a letter from Alderman W. E. Rankin with reference to his remark in the council meeting on the verdict of the coroner's jury, and our comment thereon. It will appear in tomorrow's issue of the Evening Chronicle.

Galician Found Clerical Party in Orchard Meets Dead. Intended Victim

Winnipeg, June 13.—At the side of the Bird's Hill road, surrounded by many tracks, giving evidence of a struggle, the unconscious body of an unknown Galician was found yesterday by Alexander McLennan and Henry McNeil, of Elmwood, as they drove their home after spending the night at Bird's Hill. The man was discovered at a point about three miles from the city opposite the Russell farm and was so badly injured that he was unable to move. He was found with a bullet in his head. There is a theory that the man was connected with the fight on Huron Ave., and that he was one of the party which attacked the house where Soroty was killed.

Catholics Will Nominate Candidates for Provincial Elections.

(Regina Standard.)
There is good reason for saying that the recent visit to Regina of Archbishop Langevin was connected with matters of the highest political importance to the province. His Grace was in the capital on Friday, and was the first of the most energetic of the agents of the church, who were gathered from various parts of the province. The direct result of this meeting was the decision to place Roman Catholic candidates in nomination at the next provincial election with a view to establishing a third party in the province which shall be devoted to the interests of the church. Wherever conditions shall seem to justify candidates will be brought out and the local situation will accordingly be complicated.

Was a provincial declaration expected shortly at the autumn session of the Legislature, the new clerical party will hope to carry at least half a dozen seats in the north, and will expect this to be a position to exercise considerable political influence directly in the Legislature. Archbishop Langevin and the Western hierarchy are dissatisfied with the recent blundering of the provincial government, as it has been expected to bring about a union with the Western autonomy legislation. Bitter complaint is made that so far the government has failed to carry out their pre-election pledges, in which Catholic support is founded, and it is felt that the only way of securing the status quo by taking a direct part in elections.

"The significance of this development is heightened by the persistent rumors of a federal election this fall, for though the hierarchy would make no attempt to put candidates in the field in the province for federal purposes, being well satisfied with the Laurier government as at present constituted, it is well realized that it is quite possible that a federal election will be called almost immediately on the heels of a possible Liberal victory in the federal arena, and that therefore no time is to be lost in organizing the new provincial party."

Talk along this line is to the effect that a decision will be reached at Ottawa regarding the elections so soon as Sir Wilfrid Laurier returns from Rome, where he is at present, and where he has had a long private interview with the pontiff. The recent series of scandals which has discredited the Laurier administration has tended to weaken the prestige of the government, while the success of the Union government in Manitoba, combined with the loss of prestige of the Scott Government in Saskatchewan, is an indication that the Laurier administration is losing its grip on the prairie provinces.

In view of the fact that the federal redistribution in Alberta and Saskatchewan will increase their representation to 10 seats, or including Manitoba 30 seats in all, it is realized that with the federal administration rapidly losing ground in the east, a great deal may depend on how the west goes, and for this reason a section of the Cabinet, with the support of Mr. Sifton, is for calling the general election as early as possible. A victory then would be followed by an immediate dissolution of the part of the Saskatchewan Government which is to prepare for that contingency that Archbishop Langevin is taking steps towards converting the eastern ranks of clericalism into a formidable and militant political organization within the bounds of this province.

Chicago Judge on White Slave Traffic.

Chicago, June 13.—Revelations regarding the White Slave traffic in Illinois and also concerning the immoral propensities of women were made by Judge Neve-mer at the banquet of the New's Club at the Austin Methodist Church last night. The Judge's hearers were amazed when he said: "I want to say right here that the White Slave traffic does exist, right here in Chicago, right under the nose of police protection, right here where we claim and boast of civilization does the sale of young girls exist, girls who are sold for their shame and beauty. I could give the names of scores of young men who exist and thrive on the sale of these helpless girls, the great majority of whom are from the central and west in utter ignorance of the traps and snares of these wolves who pose as 'entertainers' and 'social friends' in the White Slave traffic does not exist in Chicago my friends say, but is interstate and international. There are girls who are shipped to this city from other cities and are consigned to men right here in Chicago. Their agents who are sent from Chicago and are consigned to men here. These are the statements made to make gentlemen, I am well informed upon what I speak. I may add that I have seen even letters from men sent from Chicago, asking me if I would please find their daughters, who had fallen into slavery. Down where the right light beam and where the blind movement of the semi-civilized world and where women and girls are arrayed in the guise of deprecatation, there is where Christianity is needed most."

Boise, Idaho June 13.—The cross-examination of Orchard was continued today by Richardson. Orchard admitted he had seen Detective McParlane, had visited him this morning but said the Haywood trial was not discussed. Orchard then proceeded to trace his movements in attempting to kill Stuenberg. He told of trying to get several men to help him but was unsuccessful after two attempts. Orchard decided to travel in the same carriage as his intended victim and place a value containing a bomb under the seat occupied by Stuenberg. Orchard got on the train but Stuenberg was late and so the plan miscarried. Orchard admitted many would have been killed had that bomb exploded, but he cared little for that.

Boise, Idaho, June 13.—Former Governor Peabody and Harry Orchard met face to face in the office of J. H. Hawley today. Orchard recognized him as an old friend and greeted him with a hearty handshake. The former governor smilingly held out his hand saying "How are you Orchard?" Orchard broke down completely. He said, "I am anxious to look at you, sir, I am anxious to speak to you." The governor reassured him, and Orchard replied, "I am thankful that I did not kill you and am spared the thought of that crime."

Two Months' Foreign Trade.

(Special to The Chronicle)
Ottawa, June 14.—The foreign trade for the first two months of the fiscal year amounted to 94 millions, an increase of seven per cent and a half millions imports exceeded thirteen millions while exports show a decrease of six and a quarter millions.

Fifty-three Years' Service.

(Special to The Chronicle)
Hamilton, June 14.—After fifty-three years' service H. A. Eager has retired from the position of assistant postmaster here. The employees as a mark of esteem presented him with two leather suit cases. Mr. Eager has been supernumerary.

Was Mentally Incapable.

(Special to The Chronicle)
Calgary, June 14.—At the request of a man named Schaefer Williams of the Innishall, who was killed by a C.P.R. train here on Tuesday, the coroner's jury has found that the deceased was physically and mentally incapable of caring for himself. They also expressed the opinion that the curve in the road where the accident happened is dangerous.

Salifleet Farmer Commits Suicide.

Hamilton, Ont., June 13.—W.C. Felker, a farmer, committed suicide this morning by drinking a quantity of carbolic acid. He brood of considerable over troubles with his wife. The couple had not lived together for some and at the age of 55 Mrs. Felker got a verdict against her husband for aggravated assault.

Felker is one of ten brothers who combined might was sixty feet and combined weight was 1,000 lbs. There were no girls in the family.

C. P. R. Knocking Hill.

St. Paul Minn., June 13.—The decision of the C.P.R. to handle its through traffic from this city to the coast is a severe blow to Hill's road. The C.P.R. will use the Soo line, then the C.P.R. line to the international boundary. North Dakota, then the Spokane & International into Spokane and after that the Harriman Oregon line. The C.P.R. claims this route will be the shortest from here to Portland. Rail-roads men are confident that Hill will retaliate but in what way is not yet known.

Baseball.

Capitals Beat Hatters Again.

Medicine Hat, June 13.—Edmonton won from the locals to-night in a game the chief feature of which was heavy hitting. Crist pitched good ball, and had the locals in a box all the time. Local and Wessler did start stick work, but Bennett showed up well in the game. The same teams play again today, when Works will probably pitch for the locals. Score by innings:—Edmonton..... 0 1 2 0 3 0 3
Medicine Hat..... 0 1 0 0 2 0 1—5

Calgary Won From Lethbridge.

Lethbridge, June 13.—Calgary beat Lethbridge 2-0 in a fast and interesting game to-night. Morrison for Lethbridge lunged up a record of five strikes out, while Shyne of Calgary did effective and heavy work in the box. Both runs were scored in the first inning, when with a pretty succession of hits Calgary got Taylor and White across the plate. Lethbridge were dangerous in the first inning, but not after. Score by innings:—Calgary..... 2 0 0 0 0 0 0—2

CURRENT COMMENT.

Ext. Judge Alex. Henderson of Vancouver has been appointed to the Governorship of the Yukon, and thus is another plank in the Liberal policy, as laid down by its stalwart men and master minds in 1899, shattered to splinters. Henderson resigned from the bench to act as Lieutenant General of the campaign against Premier McRide under Commander in Chief W. W. B. McLean who is slated for the position of Justice for Vancouver City.

The people of the Western province had no ear for the siren song of these two favorites of party fortune, who were not credited with their pretended self sacrifice in leaving good government jobs for the purpose of patriotism, and their campaign ended most disastrously. As a party point of view. The province of British Columbia has been out of harmony with the Powers at Ottawa for some time. The lack of sympathy and encouragement shown Premier McRide at the conference at Ottawa held to consider the provincial boundaries was significant in that it was so direct an antithesis of the Sunney Ways habit of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Federal Premier is a great man and all great men have a crowning weakness. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's setting tin in his uncomprehending opposition to and vindictiveness toward those who stand in the way of his plans and purposes. Premier McRide and his government were likely to prove an obstacle to the exploitation of the Pacific province by the speculators that surrounded the party throne at Ottawa both within and without the charmed circle of the Grand Trunk directorate.

The gratifiers that Sifton encouraged and Oliver defended in their plundering of the public through their nefarious land deals in Saskatchewan and Alberta would have to reckon with a provincial government that had a say and a provincial Premier who was no subservient and he must be got rid of at any cost. To the two puppets named above this work was assigned and with an energy and confidence that had it been displayed in the interests of the people would have been admirable, they opened the campaign. But that desecrated regard for the Great Liberal Principle of Provincial Rights which at an earlier and a better day had enjoyed the support of the master minds of the party that knew "Howe, a Brown, a McLean, a Blake, a Mowat and a Mills was not dead; the Coast and McLean was defeated and Henderson completely repulsed.

Henderson's reward for his part in the conspiracy to place the province in a position of subservience to the central government, is the heretive governorship of a territory that has already suffered too severely under the administration of men of his ilk.

Ald McLean will no doubt shortly enter into a reward which in the days when patriotism meant more than servility to party dictation was wanted to afford an opportunity to an honorable public man to crown a life of devotion to his country's welfare with an old age of easier usefulness.

Business Changes Hands.

Messrs. Walter & Macdonald have purchased the stock of Mr. C. Sugarman, and will open up the store, which they have secured a lease, with a new, clean, selected stock of general dry goods. Messrs. Walter & Macdonald are considered men in the business both in buying and selling, and will in the new store, with the variety and quality of the goods they will carry, and their methods of dealing with the public, meet a want long felt by the people of Strathcona. The firm hopes to have the stock assorted and ready for the inspection of the public in a day or two, and will appreciate a call and the closest comparison of their goods and prices with those offered on either side of the river, or for that matter anywhere in the West. The store is closed for a day or two pending stock-taking.

A TORNADO.

The Spiral That Connects the Earth With the Clouds.

While in Kansas a few years ago I had a very clear view of a tornado. It was about ten miles distant, passing swiftly over the prairie. It presented the appearance of a long rope about two feet in diameter. It extended from the bench to act as Lieutenant General of the campaign against Premier McRide under Commander in Chief W. W. B. McLean who is slated for the position of Justice for Vancouver City.

In the direction the cloud was moving all around it was in wild commotion but the spiral itself seemed to stand like a great white ribbon coiled upon shape and fixed secure. This spiral at the time I caught sight of it was lying in a nearly horizontal position, the forward end being only slightly elevated. I have never met any one who has seen this spiral in the tornado cloud, but by one who came dangerously near the spiral itself or a passing tornado. I was told that the center of the whirling funnel was as white as milk. From his statement, taken in connection with my own observations, I have formed the opinion that the center of all tornadoes is a perfectly shaped electric spiral and that when in operation it connects the earth with the clouds. It is manifest that such a spiral would give the middle of the tornado funnel a white appearance. But it is not likely that one looking at it in its upright form would detect its spiral form. Indeed, it would have to turn itself in a most favorable position in order to reveal to the eye of the observer its spiral form.—Scientific American.

A Stamp Managerie. A very complete managerie may be formed from a collection of postage stamps having animals, birds and fish as the central figures. The animals represented are lion, tiger, elephant, giraffe, jaguar, camel, hippopotamus, buffalo, bear, leopard, dog, kangaroo, deer, horse, cow, llama, goat, monkey, donkey, leaver, duckbill, seal, sable, grizzly, cobra, crocodile, tortoise. The fowl family is represented by the peacock, owl, heron, eagle, parrot, turkey, snipe, swan, goose, quail, dove, bulard, emu, pheasant, vire bird, sparrow, crow. Of fish there are but two—the cod and carp. The insect kingdom has one representative in the butterfly, nestling in the cocoon of former Queen Elizabeth.—Frank J. Stillman in St. Nicholas.

Willing to Help. Willie was an only child, whose parents lived on a farm. He often grew very lonely and longed for a playmate. One day he asked his mamma why she didn't get him a little brother. Mother replied, "Willie, babies are so much trouble to tend." "Say, mamma, if you'll plant him, I'll hoe him."

All Said. He-It always makes me feel sad when I play the piano. She-Oh, in sympathy with your audience, I suppose.

INHUMAN TORTURES.

The Old English Custom of Burning Women Alive.

The horrible punishment of burning women alive seems to have existed in Essex England, but perhaps only in the case of slaves. Under the Norman rulers any woman found guilty of adultery was burned alive, and the same punishment for this crime and also for high treason and even for coining and other minor offenses continued or arose from time to time through the second and third periods until it was abolished by act of parliament in 1790, the last actual execution of this kind having, however, taken place six years earlier. The whipping of women for various offenses continued even later. Public whipping was not abandoned until 1871, and cases of private whipping occurred as late as 1820.

There can be no doubt, we think, that the savage human instinct of cruelty had something to do with the barbarous punishments above mentioned. As the old Roman public longed for the carriage of the circus, as the Spanish populace crowded to the auto-da-fé in the flourishing days of the Inquisition, so the lower perhaps not the only strata of English nationality took delight in witnessing tortures which in all probability were devised and kept up partly for their entertainment. Judge Jeffries in sentencing a woman to be whipped is reported to have said:

"Hangman, I charge you to pay particular attention to this lady. Scourge her till her blood runs down. It is Christmas time, a cold time for mankind to strip. See that you burn her shoulders thoroughly."—Cornhill Magazine.

SAVING MONEY.

Getting the First Thousand Dollars and What It Teaches.

"Get the first $1,000. After that money making is easy." This is the time age advice of the hard headed, self made man. That axiom has set many men to saving. They fix their first aim at the glittering target of a fortune some time to be made. To a man on a small salary—say, $1,000 a year, out of which something can be saved weekly without too much deprivation—the advice is a little different. It is something in that act as a stimulus to economy. And who will deny that economy is a good thing that any man who lights the way to it should not be known?

Many men, therefore, have been buoyed up in their economies by the belief that the first $1,000 is the hardest to get and that afterward all the rest would be easy and the good things of the world that follow a bounteous supply of money would be within easy reach. It is a pity that the man who invented that saying could not also have told me with equal advantage how to turn the $1,000 over and make two of it. It takes a long time to make a wage earner see that "money works." His idea of making money is to work for it himself. It never occurs to him that money works much easier than he can and without any of the hardships he himself experiences—that is to say, until he has got the first $1,000. That usually makes a young man feel like a diamond, and he talks wisely of investment.

Just Keep On.

When today's difficulties overshadow yesterday's triumphs and obscure the bright visions of tomorrow, when plans meet and whole years of effort seem to crystallize into a single hour of concentrated bitterness, when little annoyances eat into the mind very quickly and corrode the power to view things calmly, when the jolt of misfortune threatens to jar loose the judgment from its moorings, remember that in every business, in every career, there are valleys to cross, as well as hills to scale; that every mountain range of hope is broken, by chains of disappointment through which our forward stream of despair. To quit in the climax is to fail. See always in your mind's eye those sunny summits of success! Don't quit in the channel! Keep on!—System.

A Bonanza.
A certain western congressman has had disastrous experience in gold mine speculation. One day a number of colleagues were discussing the subject of speculation when one of them said to the western member:

"A bonanza," replied the western man, with emphasis, "is a hole in the ground owned by a champion liar."—Success.

Alexander the Great.
Alexander succeeded to the throne of Macedonia in his twenty-third year. He died at the age of thirty-two. Thus in the space of about twelve years the young soldier had broken up the great states into satrapies, crushed Darius and his million of Persians and crossed the Indian and defeated the Indian king Porus. Alexander was not merely a brilliant conqueror, but tried to weld the various countries into a solid empire.

No Use For Them.
"Come, Willie, get up!" said an indulgent father to his non-sleeping other morning. "Remember, the early bird catches the worm."
"What do I care for worms?" replied Willie. "Mother won't let me go fishing."

Bull in Danger.

SHOOTING THE LONG BOW

Some Remarkable Exploits Credited to Shooters of Arrows.

The expression "drawing a long bow" does not of necessity mean the telling of a falsehood. It sometimes refers to a wonderful story which may be true enough, but which is so marvelous as to require a firm trust in the veracity of the narrator to enable the hearer to believe it. Some of the longest bows of this sort have been drawn about love and arrows.

These stories began long ago. Virgil in the "Aeneid" tells of four archers who were shooting for a prize, the mark being a pigeon tied by a cord to the mast of a ship. The first man hit the mark, the second cut the cord, and the third shot the pigeon as it flew away. The fourth archer, having nothing left to shoot, drew his bow and sent his arrow flying toward the sky with such speed that the friction of the air set the feathers on fire, and it swept on like a meteor to disappear in the clouds.

The stories told of Robin Hood, the archer, illustrated by his wonderful performances as Locksley in Scott's "Ivanhoe," are also a decided strain upon modern credulity. The famous story of William Tell, told by so many persons, is believed by others to have a foundation of fact. There was a Dane named Foke of whom the same story is told, and William of Clontarf, an Englishman, is said to have shot an apple from his son's head merely to show his expertness.

Most stories of bows and arrows relate to the accurate aim of the archer, but a Frenchman, Blaise de Vigenere, tells one that shows the tremendous force with which an arrow may be propelled if the bow be strong and long enough. According to his own account of the matter, he saw Bartolomeo, a Turk, admiral of a ship called the Grand Soliman, send an arrow from the bow right through a cannon ball.

Whether the cannon ball had a hole through it or not he neglects to inform us, probably not considering so trifling a matter worth mention.

Perhaps the most amazing of all stories about arrow shooting is that of the Indians that used to inhabit Florida. It is said that a group of them would form a circle, then one would throw an ear of Indian corn into the air. The rest would shoot at it and shall it of every grain before it fell to the ground. Sometimes the arrows would strike it so hard and fast that it would remain suspended in the air for several minutes, and the cob never fell until the last grain had been shot away.

It is such stories as this which fully justify the use to which the expression "drawing the long bow" is sometimes put.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Don't hunt trouble. It will find you. There is not the slightest sense back of a great deal of noise.

When a man talks about his principles, he usually means his prejudices. There isn't a great deal of sunshine in the smile a man produces when he lies.

A man is always willing to lend a helping hand, but he does hate to lend money.

The man who wants to sell it is usually the one who has the least political influence.

The man who brags usually has a lot to say about the things he is going to do.

When a man stops to listen to two others arguing, he isn't after information. He wants to butt in and air his own views on one side or the other.

"Newspaper Day" in England. March 11 ought to be named "newspaper day" for on it, in the year 1702, was published the first daily paper. It was published by D. Mallet, "against the ditch at Fleet bridge"—i. e., on or near the site of the present Printing House square. Of a single page, two columns, the Daily Courant professed to give foreign news only, without editorial comments, the chief of staff "supposing other people to have sense enough to make reflections for themselves." This original sheet was passed into the hands of Samuel Buckley, "at the sign of the Dolphin in Little Britain," the worthy printer of the Spectator and one "well affected" to the house of Hannover. The Courant was in 1755 absorbed in the Daily Gazette—London Chronicle.

The Arctic Has Attractions. "Can't imagine," said the woman with the short sleeves, "why in the first Edition I'm in their country after they have learned what is to be said and seen in civilized places. Just think! They have no theaters, no shops, no schools, no churches, no clubs, no unions, no swimming, they positively have nothing that we have."

"Possibly that is the reason they stay where they are," ventured the man with the dinner jacket. A Contrast. That was a vivid and popular bit of description in which the vauclienne performer on the stage referred to the official at the front entrance of the theater as the "eight-dollars-a-week man at the door who wears a thousand dollars' worth of gold buttons."

Cause For Celebration. Mrs. De Style-I met Mrs. Schorper at a bargain sale today; said she was celebrating her silver anniversary. Mrs. (troubled) is she married twenty-five years? De Style-No, but her husband gave her $25.—New York Press.

The Crop Outlook.

(Collier's Weekly.)

The question whether America is to have a year of prosperity or of depression is largely dependent upon the crop outlook. The remarkably backward spring has given the pessimists plenty of material for gloomy forecasts, but the year's accounts are not made up in the spring. The winter wheat crop in the southwest has been seriously damaged by unseasonable weather, and "green bugs," but the high prices caused by the prospect of a deficiency in winter wheat, together with the reports of short crops in other countries, have stimulated the farmers of the Northwest and of Canada to put in every possible acre of spring wheat. The planting in the Canadian West was greatly delayed, and it seemed doubtful for a while whether it would be possible to get anything like the expected average. In time for the crop to mature before the frosts. But the planting was finally accomplished, and while the acreage is somewhat less than last year's, Premier Roblin of Manitoba asserts that "seed for many years has not gone into such favorable seedbed as in the case this season." Of course, all this fair promise might be dissipated by a summer of unfavorable growing weather or an early frost.

The greatest cash export crop of the United States is cotton. The indications are that the output this year will be greatly increased, but this prospect is not so much to cause any alarm among the planters. There is a widely prevalent opinion in the South that a small crop at high prices is more profitable than a large crop at low prices. Attempts have been made to secure small crops by artificial limitation of production, but it has proved impossible to keep the planters out in any such scheme. This year nature promises to do the work for them. There are still large reserves on hand from last year's crop, which the final spinning report allows to have been, with one exception, the greatest on record. It is estimated that 13,000,000 bales, falling short of 1904's record crop of 13,679,984 bales by only about $5,000, Texas produced the enormous total of 420,000 bales—nearly a third that of the entire production of the United States and this in spite of the boll weevil pest, which has been practically mastered by improved methods of cultivation. It is an interesting fact that the coming State of Oklahoma last year produced more cotton than South Carolina.

In voluntary value, and import, rice to the country all other crops are overshadowed by corn. As this is only beginning to grow, there is, of course, no ground for any prediction as to its outcome. A favorable summer, insuring a good corn crop, would go far toward neutralizing any ill-effects from a shortage in winter wheat, especially as the great corn states are precisely the ones in which wheat has suffered the greatest damage. The minor grain crops, too, such as oats and barley, are giving excellent promise.

Rev. Mr. Corey, in going East, July 1, will advertise for sale all household goods, including a first class piano, almost new, a fine new-made machine, Porcelain, and to see any of these things may call at the Baptist parsonage.
